In so far as 1992-93 is concerned, the targets for Major & Medium and Minor schemes are 0.70 million hectares and 2.01 million hectares respectively, which are likely to be achieved. For 1992—97 (Eighth plan period) the above targets are 5.09 million hectares and 10.71 million hectares respectively.

(c) At the end of 1991-92, the gap between country's irrigation potential created and its actual utilisation has been estimated at about 8.1 million hectares. To reduce this gap a Centrally sponsored Command Area Development Programme has already been in implementation since 1974-75. Better water management practices are also being implemented.
